REMARKS

I talked to Mr. Barfield about this. He said he thought that since we are withholding the papers, we might as well give all possible reasons for withholding, although one of them might be withdrawn on consideration of an appeal. He thought that was preferable to producing a reason later on consideration of an appeal.

As Mr. Barfield says, the inter-agency memorandums may appear innocuous when considered separately. Because of the involvement and possible annoyance of the Kennedy family and the Department of Justice if Weisberg approaches them for additional related material, I think it best to withhold our material, which is attached, in order to get a policy decision from the Department through its Freedom of Information Committee as to whether this material should be released. This can be done if Weisberg appeals the denial.

I have revised the draft to include Mr. Hartingh's suggested revisions.
